SUBJECT: Recall of Certain Manipulatives in the BDI-2TM Testing Kit

We have been notified by Riverside Publishing that certain manipulatives in the Battelle Developmental Inventory Kits have been recalled because they may contain lead. The kits were distributed by the Office of Early Childhood Education and Family Services to Intermediate School District (ISD) special education personnel for use with preschool children to meet the child outcomes data collection requirements under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) 2004. Please review the attached letter from Riverside Publishing for instructions on which items should be discarded, and how to receive replacement items. Riverside has been notified that ISD personnel will be contacting the company directly for the replacement items.

If you have questions about this issue, please contact William Rowan in the Office of Early Childhood Education and Family Services at (517) 373-8483 or at rowanw@michigan.gov.

RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING

a subsidiary of Houghton Mifflin Harcourt

The safety and quality of the products we sell are of paramount importance to The Riverside Publishing Company. In light of recent product safety issues in the toy industry, we have been reviewing our product quality policies and procedures to confirm that our vendors are exercising appropriate care to ensure the safety of the products and materials they provide to us. We require the companies that provide the manipulatives we sell and the suppliers of raw materials used in manufacturing our manipulatives to meet or exceed all applicable state, federal, and international laws and regulations and to provide certification of compliance.

Riverside has not received any reports of injuries in connection with these manipulatives. We regret any inconvenience that may have been caused by this replacement action. Thank you for your continued support of the Riverside Publishing family of products and services.

Sincerely,

Linda Hunt McClary
